Historiku i shkurtër i Voskopojes

Voskopoja sot është një nga pikat më të fuqishme turistike e kulturore në rajonin e Korçës. Kjo i dedikohet pozicionit gjeografik malor, peisazhit të bukur gjithëvjetor dhe historisë thujse legjendare të këtij qyteti të dikurshëm. Zanafilla e vendbanimit mendohet të ketë qënë rreth shek.14të. Kulmin e lulëzimit e arriti në fillim të shek.18të, duke u cilësuar si "Metropol tregëtar i Epirit" dhe "qyteti i dytë më i madh në Perandorinë Otomane, pas Stambollit". Bashkëkohësit thonë se numëronte gati rreth 50,000 banore. Në këtë periudhë kishte 26 kisha ku sot numerohen 8 të tilla. Ka pasur një shkollë të lartë të quajtur "Akademia e Re" (1744), bibliotekë (1710), shtypshkronjë me emrin e "Shën Naumit" (1714), spital, azil për të vobektit dhe mbi 20 organizata esnafore. Qyteti kishte rrugë të gjera me kalldrëme, trotuare dhe kanalizime, fragmente të cilave mund të shihen ende sot. Tregëtarët Moskopolitë frekuentonin rregullisht tregjet e të gjitha qendrave kryesore të Ballkanit dhe të Europës. Ka pasur personalitete të shquara, si Teodor Kavalioti, Sevasti Leontiadhi, Mihal Gora, Grigor Moskopoliti, etj., Fundi i këtij lulëzimi erdhi së bashku me shkatërrimin total të qytetit, gjatë viteve 1769,1772 e 1789, por u shkatërrua përfundimisht më 1916, gjatë Luftës së Parë Botërore. Që atëhere Voskopoja u transformua në një fshat të vogël me pak rëndësi nga ana ekonomike. Por sot është shumë e rëndësishme të vlersohet ky SIT si qënder e rëndësishme historike dhe me vlera të mëdha turistike në të ardhmen

Brief history of Voskopoja

Today Voskopoja is one of the strongest points of cultural tourism in the region of Korca. This is dedicated to its geographical position, beautiful perennial landscape and almost legendary history of this ancient city. The origins of the settlement is thought to have been around 14th century. The blooming peak was reached in early 18th century, being described as "the rest of Epirus trade" and "the second largest city in the Ottoman Empire, after Istanbul." Contemporaries say that they numbered about 50,000 residents. In this period there were 26 churches while today they count eight of such. There was a high school called "New Academy" (1744), library (1710), print with the name of "St. Naum" (1714), hospital, sanctuary for the blind and over 20 organizations. The town has broad cobbled streets, sidewalks and sewers, fragments of which can still be seen today Moskopolitë traders regularly frequented markets of all major centers in the Balkans and Europe. There were prominent personalities such as Theodore Kavalioti, Sevast Leontiadhi, Mihal Gora, Grigor Moskopoliti, etc., The end of the boom came along with the total destruction of the city, over the years 1769, 1772 and 1789, but eventually collapsed in 1916 during the First World War. Since then Voskopoja was transformed into a small village with less economical importance. But today it is necessary to evaluate this as an important historical center and with major tourist value in the future.
